How to trim goalkeeper gloves How to trim the goalie's glove: The best way to determine the size of the goalie glove is to measure the length of the goalkeeper's hand from the end of the middle finger to the tip of the palm. The general rule is to round out and add a size. The 7-inch manual measurement would be a size 8. My hand is 7.5 inches. 7.5 inches - 0.5 to round - 1 - a size 9. It is much more difficult to size the gloves of young goalkeepers. Determining the best glove cut is based on body preference and type. Goalkeeper glove sizing guide: This is not an exact science since each goalkeeper's hand is different. Goalkeeper gloves should be worn slightly larger than the size of the hand. A keeper's finger should not touch the tip of the glove and there should be no excessive space that makes the glove sloppy., Generally 1/4 to 1/2 on the tip of your finger is optimal or a miniature length if you don't have a ruler handy. Here are some tips for guessing more effectively. If you don't have a local football store to go and try a pair then here are two common ways to determine the appropriate size. Another option is to measure the circumference of the widest part of the palm Measure the circumference of the widest part of the palm to the exclusion of the thumb. Round to the next highest inch. Then add 1 to the measurement to determine the size of your glove. Be sure to measure both hands and control the largest size. When sizing a keeper's gloves, fingers should be no less than a 1/4 inch to an ideal 1/2 inch from the top of the glove. Help with the size of the goalie glove for young people: There are slight variations in size between manufacturers; between inexpensive practice gloves and more expensive play gloves; gloves with youthful sizes only; and adult size varies with the size of young that range from size 5 - 11. A youth size 7 and an adult size 7 are very different in size. To make things more difficult a size 6 in Elite Sport will fit more like a Reusch junior size 7.
